

MORSE PLACE STAGES EIGHTH ANNUAL SHOW

Exhibits of Flowers, Vegetables, Honey, and Women's Work Total 900

The eighth annual exhibition of the Morse Place Horticultural society in the Sallsbury school, Saturday afternoon and evening, proved one of the most successful events in the history of the society.

There were about 900 of as fine exhibits of flowers, vegetables, honey and women's and children's work as were seen at any of the shows held in the Winnipeg district this season, and all residents of the district, as well as many from the city, took advantage of the fine weather to visit the school.

Mrs. D. M. Dobbie was an outstanding winner in the vegetable and flower sections, other prominent competitors being W. Thompson, G. Miles, C. Sharman, C. Stacey and C. Midwinter. Honey was a big exhibit, attracting much attention, C. Midwinter and W. Thompson leading the way. The fruit and cake section was most appetizing, the chief awards going to Mrs. Studney and Mrs. A. Nicholl, and the needlework had many first prize pieces belonging to Mrs. Crane.

Brief Addresses

D. A. Ross, M.L.A., made the opening address and congratulated the officers and competitors on the splendid showing in all departments in the face of a late growing season. A brief address was also made by C. Midwinter, who expressed his pleasure at the good showing made and the keen competition in all classes.

During the afternoon a programme of races and sports was run off, a special feature being the tug-of-war, in which the married men won from the bachelors after a strenuous pull. Dancing was the order during the evening, when the local Labor Hall was requisitioned for the purpose, and wound up a very successful fair.

The cups and special trophies will be presented to the winners at a meeting to be held later.

The judges who made the awards in the various classes were: Canning and cookery, Miss A. Moxom; sewing, Miss J. Smith; honey, L. T. Floyd; flowers and vegetables, J. Cocks and T. Jackson.
