

Mayor Suttie of East Kildonan is seen here handing over the keys of the new Neil Campbell School to L. A. McMahon, chairman of the East Kildonan School Board, at the official opening of the school last Friday night. Members of the Municipal Council and School Board, together with a number of interested citizens, attended. Mr. Justice A. M. Campbell, after whose father the school has been named, was present and took part in the ceremonies. He stated that he appreciated the thoughtfulness of the School Board in perpetuating the memory of the name of his father, and complimented the Board on its appreciation of local history. The school was constructed by the British American Land Development Co. Ltd. under its contract with the municipality.
