

Religious Needs Stressed At Opening Of New School

The new $62,000, completely modern St. Alphonsus school, which replaces the old school at Brazier street and Munroe avenue, East Kildonan, was officially opened Sunday by Hon. R. F. McWilliams, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba.

The school, a two-storey structure, includes a cafeteria and is designed to accommodate 350 children.

minister of education, and Mayor J. L. Bodle of East Kildonan, also spoke.

The building was blessed by Most Rev. G. C. Cabana, coadjutor-archbishop of St. Boniface.

Other speakers included Father K. Kennedy, rector of St. Alphonsus; John A. Stanley and Mrs. Joseph Nolan. Chairman was J. A. Trejger.

Mayor MacLean Scores Manitoba On Relief Aid

Most Rev. Gerald C. Murray, coadjutor-archbishop of Winnipeg, told the gathering religious education was necessary to live a good life.

He felt education in public schools was insufficient due to a lack of religious training.

"Teachers," he continued, "are not primarily delegates of the government. They must realize their responsibility and obligation to impart a training comparable to what the students would receive in a good home."

Manitoba is doing less to help those on relief than any other province in the country, Mayor G. C. MacLean of St. Boniface charged Monday night at a meeting of the civic health and licence committee.

A motion, sponsored by Mayor MacLean, was passed asking that
