Volunteer Patrols Start In St. Vital

Effective Friday, a large-scale volunteer patrol of the Windsor and Glenwood areas of St. Vital is being maintained, day and night, by the residents.

With full approval of police, men living in the area are moving back to their homes to take up residence. Municipal authorities will not give permission for entire families to move back until the basements are pumped, flushed and de-contaminated. But they want the men to return home as quickly as possible to help in protection of their homes and in the clean-up job.

Full-scale patrolling of the Windsor area, effective immediately, was arranged Thursday night at a meeting of residents, called by the Windsor Community club, in the clubroom of the Free Press. It followed the announcement by William Metcalfe, club president, that police wanted the men to return. All such men should report in at the police station as they return.

West of St. Mary's road, the Windsor area extends from Mager drive south to Hull avenue and west on Kingston row as far as Dunkirk drive. The Windsor area east of St. Mary's road extends south from Varennes avenue to Hull avenue and is bounded on the east by St. Anne's road.

Gordon Swain of the St. Vital health unit explained to the meeting the steps which the municipality would take in pumping out basements. He said pumping would start when the river fell to a level of between 25 and 26 feet.

The Glenwood Community club area which is also being fully patrolled, extends south from the northern boundary of St. Vital to Sherwood place, and east to the Seine river.

Before the floods the top of this seven-foot high sewer pipe, at which David Garroni, six, (left) and his brother Ken, nine, of 135 Pinedale avenue are looking, was level with the top of the ground. The pipe, and others like it in a huge valley dug out by bulldozers between the Norwood Community club and the Lyndale dike, are startling reminders of the countless tons of earth scooped out of the block-square area to build the dike which held against the worst batterings of the flooding Red river.

Flood Scene Horrible Say Labor Leaders

BY MIKE HRUSHKA

The bright sunshine was the only cheerful part of the picture, when labor leaders made a 60-mile flight over the flooded area of the Red river valley Thursday.

Below the big TCA plane carrying the party of trade unionists, the devastated area, despite reports of a recession of the flood, was still a grim waste, void of any semblance of normal life.

The courtesy air tour was arranged for members of the trades union committee of the Manitoba Flood Relief fund, whose immediate major task is to raise the maximum amount of money from the labor movement for the fund. Gratifying results have already been reported for their efforts.

After the air cruise over miles of the flood-devastated areas, the labor group felt, it seemed to this reporter, like raising their hands heavenward and pleading to all humanity for financial help, more help no matter where it came from and regardless of the amount of contributions.

Scenes below the plane were heart-rending. High buildings, tree tops, roofs of homes and barns, and some spots of road were the only indications of the normal life that once hummed there.

"It is a horrible sight, and calls for an all-out effort to raise millions of dollars for rehabilitation of the victims," commented Reg. Slocombe, chairman of the Winnipeg Electric Employees federated council, C.B.U. He was sitting in the plane next to the reporter.

"It is indescribable, devastating," said Sid Simpson, representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers. Reports in the daily press and pictures of the flood disaster have not been exaggerated," he said.

Upon leaving the airport Mr. Simpson hurried to his office to prepare an article for the brotherhood's magazine on the flood, its devastation and the need for contributions to the Manitoba flood relief.

"The need for relief is much greater than I realized before this flight," commented George Jones, another representative of the brotherhood."

"Good God, this thing is horrible," was the reaction of Robert Holmes, president of the Winnipeg and District Trades and Labor council, T.L.C.

Other trade unionists included in the party were J. B. Graham, business agent of the Carpenter's union, whose international has donated $50,000 to the fund; Joe Green, representative of the Moulders and Foundry Workers union, A.F.L.; Ed. Houle, secretary of the teamsters council; C. F. Schubert, representative of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store union, C.C.L.-C.I.O.; and Nick Swatiuk, of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, C.C.L.-C.I.O.

The trip of the labor group followed one by members of the provincial legislature, who also observed the flooded area on a TCA courtesy tour.

Transcona Sets School Classes For 100 Evacuees

Three classes for more than 100 evacuee children living in the town have been organized in Transcona; two of these classes are held in the Central school and the other in the Maple Leaf community clubrooms.

The mind occupational committee has arranged the following activities for the evacuees: bowling, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.; tea, coffee, cards and reading material will be available daily from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Pirate community club; and supervised play at the Central school playgrounds from 6.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. daily.

Shopbreaker Gives Self Up; Gets 20-Month Jail Term

A conscience-stricken man who gave himself up to Brandon city police Tuesday received a 20-month jail sentence for shopbreaking and theft when he appeared in city police court here Friday. Ernest Chirstian Stenberg, 25, of no fixed abode, pleaded guilty to breaking into the William Martin Shirt company, 350 Ross avenue, Saturday and stealing 26 shirts, valued at $260. The man told police he had sold the shirts in Winnipeg beer parlors for as low as $1 each and then hopped a freight train for Brandon. While there, he said, he thought over his actions and decided to give himself up. Stenberg admitted breaking into the premises by smashing a pane of glass in the front door and releasing the spring lock. He was returned to Winnipeg Thursday under escort.

VENEREAL DISEASE TOTAL DECREASES

Manitoba's venereal disease total decreased by two cases during the week ending May 20, a release from the provincial department of health and public welfare showed. Nineteen new cases were reported as against 21 during the previous week. Of the new instances, 11 were gonorrhoea and eight syphilis. A breakdown of statistics shows five cases of gonorrhoea and four of syphilis in Winnipeg proper, one case of syphilis in suburban Winnipeg and six instances of gonorrhoea and three of syphilis at rural points throughout the province. Winnipeg's suburbs were free of gonorrhoea during the seven-day period.

Police Nab Thief Eight Minutes After Car Stolen

Quick thinking on the part of an office worker coupled with prompt action on the part of city police resulted in a 26-year-old auto thief being arrested Thursday, eight minutes after the offence was committed. In city police court Friday, Vancouverite Herbert Nelson pleaded guilty to a charge of auto theft and was jailed for one year. Court was told that Nelson made off with an auto which had been parked on Princess street Thursday by its owner, who had gone into an office building leaving his wife sitting in the car. Shortly afterwards she left the car momentarily to talk to her husband. It was during this short interim that Nelson hopped into the car and drove off. However, a girl working in the office building noticed the theft and notified police, who effected the speedy arrest.

The letter continued, "We are also aware of the hardships the western provinces are suffering, but we can assure you that everything is being done from the smallest village to the largest city in the way of drives to help relieve your situation in some way".

Best, editor of "The Negro Citizen" in New Glasgow, N.S. Mrs. Best has written the Manitoba Relief fund for information regarding any Negro couple who require assistance. "Absolutely no one who drinks intoxicating liquor will be considered. Though a couple who are foreigners might be considered, a colored couple is preferred," Mrs. Best writes.

New Committee To Handle City's Flood Problems

Winnipeg's newly-formed aldermanic flood committee met for the first time Thursday in Mayor Garnet Coulter's office. The new committee, composed of the chairmen of the city's six standing committees, will be headed by Ald. George Sharpe.

It will take over the reins of flood control and rehabilitation from the present city flood control committee, composed of civic department heads and chiefs of other public utilities.

Discharge of the present committee was recommended by its chairman, W. D. Hurst, city engineer, who said it was time for civic department heads to return to normal routines.

The new committee will meet three or four times weekly until the city's rehabilitation task is completed.

Nominations for a business agent for the Winnipeg Bartenders union, Local 206, will be received at a general meeting of the local Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Labor temple.

City's Flood Cost Estimate Goes To Commission Monday

The city of Winnipeg will submit an estimate of its total flood costs Monday to the dominion-provincial fact-finding commission.

The estimate will be furnished under the following general headings:

1. Flood fighting.
2. Flood damage to public property of the city and school board.
3. Evacuation and return.
4. Rehabilitation of business and home premises.

W. B. Brown, city treasurer, told the city's newly-formed aldermanic flood committee Thursday that the estimate was requested at a meeting between the commission and civic department representatives last Tuesday.

He explained the estimate headings as follows:

Flood fighting costs would include expenditures up to May 27, as well as an estimate of subsequent costs, costs of removing and cleaning up dikes, and such health measures as insect control.

Flood damage to public property would have to be an estimate only and would include streets, bridges, sewers, water mains, buildings, parks, and other properties.

Evacuation and return costs referred to patients in hospitals and nursing homes.

Rehabilitation costs might include basement pumping, inspection and other services.

Pumping Costs

Referring to the rehabilitation costs, Mr. Brown pointed out that the city's expenses there would likely be limited to pumping of basements and inspections.

"Of course, some people think differently. They think we should clean up personal property like lawns and other things," Mr. Brown added.

Mayor Garnet Coulter interjected that cleaning of lawns and gardens was definitely an individual problem for householders.

"What about where dikes were built, or bulldozers ruined yards?" queried Ald. George Sharpe.

W. D. Hurst, city engineer, replied that the city would undertake to clean up the mess left by dikes and heavy equipment.

Ald. E. E. Hallonquist described the job of rehabilitation as a "tremendous task."

Agreeing, Mayor Coulter predicted that rehabilitation would be a much more difficult job than the actual work during the flood peak. "The public was all out to co-operate then in the midst of the crisis, but there is a growing discontent now. Volunteer help is falling away rapidly."

Dr. M. S. Lougheed, city medical health officer, thought that individual householders would probably do 90 per cent. of the clean-up job.

"As long as their homes meet minimum health standards, and if they obey our published instructions, I have nothing against them going back to their homes right away to start work," Dr. Lougheed said.

He also reported that six sanitary inspectors, on loan from the city of Toronto, had arrived Thursday morning to help in the restoration task. Six more were expected from the province of Ontario government, he added.

Announce Revised List Of Schools Open Monday

All schools now open will remain open until the summer vacation begins, according to an announcement made Friday by J. C. Pincock, superintendent of schools in Winnipeg.

Sine the last announcement was made it has been necessary to make some changes in the list of schools which will open May 29, he said.

Following is the revised list of schools opening for admission of pupils Monday.

Cecil Rhodes, No. one and two; Champlain; Elmwood; Faraday; Glenelm; Greenway, No one and two; King Edward, No. one and two; Laura Secord, La Verendrye; Lord Selkirk; Montcalm; Pinkham; Principal Sparling; River Heights; Robert H. Smith; Rockwood; Sir Sam Steele; Wellington; Weston and William Whyte.

Pupils of the schools which will not open May 29 are to report to their own schools at 9 a.m. for instructions from their principals, who will tell them which schools they may attend until their own schools re-open, Mr. Pincock explained.

The exceptions to this are the pupils of the Riverview school and the Fort Rouge school. These pupils should report to the school that is open nearest to their present location.

In the case of the Lord Selkirk and Glenelm schools and any other evacuated areas, Mr. Pincock warned that "people who have been evacuated should not return to their homes before they are given notice by the flood control authorities."

Every effort is being made to bring back to some schools as many pupils as possible, he said, but owing to the limited accommodation and the distance of pupils from available schools in some instances, it has been found impossible to provide for certain kindergarten and primary grade pupils.

The pupils of kindergarten and grades one and two of the schools that will not re-open will not attend school until their own schools re-open.

Operation Dike Bus Winds Up; Need Past

Operation Dike Bus is over.

With Red river flood waters receding slowly but surely the hourly, 'round-the-clock free transportation for dike volunteers from in front of the Free Press building to all parts of the city ended this week, according to Major F. Boothroyd, general manager of Moore's Taxi limited.

Three weeks ago with the Red rising at a furious pace and with thousands of Winnipeggers ready to man the dikes, the question was: "How will I get there? Where will I go?"

Speedy Solution

This problem was speedily solved when Major Boothroyd and Bill Speers, manager of CKRC, formulated a plan for volunteers to report in front of the Free Press building, from where free transportation to the dikes would be provided every hour on the hour by Moore's buses.

With radio announcements from CKRC and all other stations the operation went into effect at three p.m. May 6. It caught on like wildfire. Flood workers poured into the waiting vehicles and were whisked away at the rate of 150 an hour, Major Boothroyd said.

50,000 Moved

With bus drivers and executive personnel working 15 to 20 hours a day to maintain the hourly schedule, it was established that 50,000 volunteers were transported free of charge.

"Volunteers are wonderful people and Winnipeg has a terrific number of them," said Major Boothroyd.

700 Stations To Carry Flood Fund Radio Show

The "Flood the Fund" air show, 90-minute broadcast of the Red River Relief Rally in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, has been made available to another 300 stations, bringing the total number to 700.

The giant programme, M.C.'d by Jack Carson, a native of Carman, Man., and starring such notable as George Formby, Fred Waring, Sir Ernest MacMillan, and radio commentator John Fisher, will be heard over all Winnipeg stations from 7.30-9 p.m. Friday.

In addition to CBC stations, the show will be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting corporation, and on a delayed basis by the Don Lee network of some 50 stations on the Pacific coast. John Dunlop, supervisor CBC international exchange broadcasts, announced Friday.

WOR Mutual stations in New York city will also delay the broadcast till late Friday night when New York theatres are out, it was reported.

Potential audience of station WOR is as great as the total radio homes in Canada.

The American Broadcasting system, comprising 280 stations, has agreed to record the whole programme and make it available to its affiliates Sunday night.

8-Year-Old Becomes Human Torch; Saved By Quick-Acting Boy Scout

An eight-year-old West Kildonan girl, though seriously burned, is alive in hospital.

Her mother and father, though badly shaken, have a mishap, not a death, to mourn.

A boy scout, though only 13, has saved a life.

Brown-eyed, freckle-faced Eugene Baron, of 282 Lansdowne avenue, was prepared when a post-24th bonfire set eight-year-old Marlyne Greenspan's dress afire.

When the searing flames Thursday turned Marlyne into a screaming, burning human torch, Eugene knew exactly what to do.

That knowledge, and its quick, calm application, was today credited with saving Marlyne Greenspan's life.

Rolled In Mud

Marlyne's clothing caught fire from a neighborhood bonfire about 1 p.m. Thursday.

Seconds later, Eugene ripped the flaming cloth from her body and rolled her in the mud.

Marlyne's condition in the Winnipeg General hospital today was described as fairly good, although she is due to undergo a skin grafting operation for burns on her stomach.

Hospital authorities said Eugene's fast-thinking and equally fast action were probably responsible for saving Marlyne's life.

At home today, boy scout (soon to be patrol leader) Baron assumed an "aw, shucks" attitude towards the whole thing.

"It wasn't really much," he told a Free Press reporter. "Me and some of the kids were standing around watching some fireworks we hadn't set off on the 24th.

"We had some matches left over and decided to build a bonfire.

"Next thing I knew, Marlyne's dress was in flames.

"I told her to lie down in the mud, like I was told at scouts." Eugene added, "but she would not. She just stood there screaming. Then she started running around in circles screaming 'Mommy! Mommy!'

"I grabbed her and threw her down in the mud. Then I ripped off her clothes.

"I burned my hands a little," he offered self-consciously, "but I got the fire out."

To Hospital

Marlyne's mother rushed from her house, at 233 Smithfield avenue, and wrapped her little girl in a blanket. A neighbor took mother and child to the Winnipeg General hospital, losing precious minutes when they first tried Children's hospital, closed down by the flood.

Eugene has been a boy scout, member of Beaver Patrol, 19th Youth Centre Troop, a year and a half. Before that he was a cub for three years.

"Gosh," he said today, "I'm sure glad we learned what to do in that kind of emergency. I never thought I'd ever get to use what Scoutmaster Jack Sector told me about saving people whose clothes caught fire."

Today Eugene was the toast of his West Kildonan neighborhood.

But he didn't take much notice of that.

"All I really want," he said, "is to see little Marlyne get better again."

Eugene Baron, 13-year-old boy scout credited with saving a young playmate's life Thursday, tells Elaine Craven, cousin of the injured girl, how Marlyne Greenspan's clothing caught fire. Eugene's prompt action in stripping the girl's clothing off cheated flames which threatened to burn to death the eight-year-old West Kildonan girl.

Mayor's Message On Radio Tonight

Mayor Garnet Coulter will make a radio announcement in connection with flood conditions Friday at 9.30 p.m. The announcement, which city officials say will be of vital interest to all citizens of Greater Winnipeg area, will be broadcast over all city stations, and be of five minutes duration.

Faulty ignition wires were blamed for the $50 blaze in the engine and cab of a truck Friday morning.
